AIESEC Vietnam

Viet-Quang Nguyen

Defining himself as passionately Vietnamese and thoughtfully global, Viet-Quang is a millennial with a strong interest in education technology and youth development. He has intensive working experience with young people all over the world through 5 years of engaging in business talent solutions and youth activating activities in Vietnam. He's currently managing a youth-run organization called AIESEC in Vietnam, which mobilize more than 2000 young people for cross-cultural understanding every year. The name to be called in an informal setting: QUANG

@vietquang.nguyen@aiesec.net

Tu-Anh Luong

Thanks to my role in managing partnerships & special events of AIESEC in Vietnam, I have valuable opportunities to learn about managing & allocating resources to make youth projects happen and to work with senior leaders from various sectors to deliver meaningful partnerships. Those experiences have developed my huge interest in Partnership Development/Operation Management/Community Building & to what extent it could fit into the big picture of a sustainable society, and also align with my educational background & personal traits, i.e adaptive, purpose-driven & good at coordinating people working towards the same goal. The name to be called in an informal setting: ANH. @tuanh.luong@aiesec.net
